Our Scholars

Our Future

“Overall, my appreciation for research has grown even more because of this experience, and I now have the tools necessary for a career in health equity research. It played a direct role in my hiring as a researcher during my gap year.

Through that position, I secured NIH funding, which, along with the MOLA scholarship, has made me a strong candidate for top medical research programs.”

CHRISTIAN PELAYO, MD

2022 MOLA-MRF SCHOLAR

Medical Student

University of Wisconsin School of Medicine and Public Health

“One of my favorite parts of MOLA-MRF was listening to my peers share their research projects and watching their passion come alive as they presented their work. Witnessing the dedication and curiosity each person brought to investigating the factors that shape the health of Latino communities was incredibly inspiring. It is an honor to be a MOLA-MRF alumna and to be part of a community that continues to cultivate the next generation of Latino researchers, clinicians, and leaders dedicated to creating lasting change.”

MARIA DE LOS ANGELES
ALMARAZ VILLANUEVA
